Dear Mr. Emerson,

Enclosed are the two additions of which I spoke to you day before yesterday. If it is not too much trouble, would you please insert them in the proper places in the manuscript? Thanks.

I am preparing a shorter summary in the form of questions and answers, about 14 questions, 13 with answers. The 14th. needs no answer. While this is not nearly as dramatic and omits most of the book, I'm wondering if it might not save Mac some of the time I so appreciate his devoting to me. I feel that is there isn't enough in this short summary to excite their interest, it will not be possible.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
